En través de un escrito remitido al Gobierno de la Ciudad, los docentes de la Universidad Autónoma de Baja California exigen que el sitio de internet activo en la institución se encare para poder cobrar por usarlo. Los funcionarios apuntaron que el uso de internet por los estudiantes se realiza gratuitamente, pues perciben sueldos de manera masiva y sin derechos. Asimismo, señalaron que cobran por sus funciones mientras que académicos de niveles y grados inferiores no están empleados. Por eso acusaron al Gobierno local de violar la ley federal en materia de internet, pues supuestamente la institución se beneficia del y las conexiones asignadas para la clase tercera nivel de grado. Incluyen entre sus reclamos el pago de derechos de reproducción, distribución, comercialización y publicidad, así como la asignación de derechos de uso, a la vez que condicionan la compra de buenos conocimientos y la buena reputación de la institución. TE RECOMENDAMOS EN FACEBOOK Finalmente, los docentes quienes se desempeñan en el nivel tercero y superior exigen el pago de puntos calificados para seguir adelante en su carrera y poder continuar al grado superior. Los docentes también solicitan compensación por prestación de servicios, y que el arancel aplicable a las 1cdb3666d

Adobe Acrobat 9 Pro Patch crack Seven 7 re p crack Adobe Acrobat 9 Pro Patch crack Seven 7 re p crackQ: Best places to put a Windows Forms in asp.net MVC I am looking for the best place to place the windows forms in asp.net mvc. We are working on a page/controller/model structure. Should the forms be in the controller? or the model? If it is controller I need to know what are the best place to put the forms. Thanks A: Please pay attention to separation of concerns. Model Models should contain data. If your form is about editing of data, it is expected place on a model. Forms Forms should be placed on a view (UI). If you are going to use such forms several times on the application, consider creating a HtmlHelper for it. Controller Controller should contains behavior of the controller and all the other layers it depend on (views, models and services). If your forms require behavior that only controller can provide (e.g. saving form's data on database), the form's controller is a good place. In this case, I suggest to separate logic for saving data (controllers) from UI logic (views). Example: public ActionResult CreatePost(Post post) { // If you are going to create a new post, you need to keep user's data // for working with it after post's creation. In this case the code below // is a reasonable place User user = userRepo.find(post.UserId); if (user == null) return RedirectToAction("View"); var repo = db.Repository.Find(post.RepositoryId); post.User = user; post.Repository = repo; ... } public class HtmlHelper { public HtmlHelper(ViewContext context) { _context = context; } public HtmlHelper Fields(Expression>> selector)
