What's new:

- Info on Story Mode, Multiplayer, and Online Play Bishoujo Battle Mahjong Solitaire was originally released in Japan in 2009. The game was released in both the DS and 3DS systems, with the DS version being released just two months later, in May of 2009. In the game, two different perspectives of the same avatars are used, trading off perspectives as the duel progresses. Between each avatar are different topics, changing every time there is a new topic in the game. Each game is played on a random board with a four player (in multiplayer) or solo (in single player) setup, each of the players taking turns spending energy to attack and defending. As attacks and defenses are used up, the game is won or lost to give an advantage to either the attacker or defender. Another topic can be used up in the course of the game to enact effects after the attack or defense. Each of the avatars in the game and their subjects (present in each topics area) is a Bishoujo in Japanese culture, so the “battle” name of the game should be rather self-explanatory. Story Mode The Story Mode (S Mode) part of the game is to win 40 of the topics, each representing one of the attributes of Bishoujo. Being able to put your strength forward, you will need to spend energy to attack or defend or at least no energy to not participate in the battle. To do this, you will have different sets of avatar cards, which you will draw when you play their set of rules for that battle. These are themed around different topics, and will tie into the topic event. These can be purchased from the Price Menu after each contest in the shop. There are nine topics that you will need to play four of for the highest score, and five additional topics that are in play once you have played all nine. This brings the total to 20 battle cards that you will need to play to get the highest score. To get that high score, each avatar will have to pass a certain criteria to win the game. This is done by having “abilities” that you will get to use as the topic is played. The abilities are as follows: Power: You are allowed to use one attack in one battle. This attack can be used on at least three of the opponents, and the more you use it, the higher its cost per turn. Note that the cost goes up after each
