This week, a couple has been charged with forcing their 13 year old daughter to live as a boy. The parents, David and Heather Pearce, were sentenced to four years in prison (the judge called it cruel) and the girl has been taken into state care. If the Pearce's are looking for someone to blame I suggest they look at themselves. As the father's statement of the facts reveal he too wasn't following the proper procedures for having a sexual reassignment operation on a minor. The Pearce's are also being criticized for giving the child cross sex hormones to force the gender reassignment on her. In India, a woman was beaten to death in the streets of Bhopal for using condoms. (Click HERE for this story) In a country whose healthcare system (according to the World Health Organization) ranks 12th in the world, these are the types of stories being written as a result of the lack of access to proper healthcare. Women and girls are too often being considered second class citizens in their own countries. Having the surgery is expensive, and that is only if you can get insurance in the first place. Then of course, there's the ongoing costs of drugs, psychiatrists, etc. for the treatment. It's estimated that this will cost around half a million dollars. It's easy to look at this story from a "we should give these folks free healthcare" point of view. I agree. But seeing it from the ground up, the story is more that of a tragic victim of an economical (and political) system that does not give a damn about the poor and underserved. At the very least, it seems like the Pearce's should be sent to jail and have to pay for the trauma their actions have caused this girl. I hope this case is a wake up call for those who would argue about "which is harder - giving birth or sexual reassignment surgery?" G.J. Paster G.J. Paster is an American former soccer coach. Q: UICollectionView dataSource update after adding cells I have a UICollectionView with a custom UICollectionViewLayout. My data is represented by 3 "cell views", but the view is really only 2 cells. I'm adding cells dynamically based on some conditions on my data (i.e. "if the data is new, add this one"). I'm doing it like this: - (void)addCellsWithData:(NSArray *)data { if (self.dataSource) { [self.dataSource removeAllObjects]; } NSMutableArray *arr = [[NSMutableArray alloc] initWithObjects:]; for (NSDictionary *dic in data) { View *view = [self buildViewWithData:(NSArray *)dic[@"data"]]; [arr addObject:view]; } self.dataSource = arr; if (self.delegate && [self.delegate respondsToSelector:@selector(collectionView:cellViewForItem:)]) { [self.delegate collectionView:self.collectionView cellForItem:nil]; } } this is working fine. But the layout being used is just a UICollectionViewFlowLayout, and not a custom layout. How can I update the collectionView's layout after adding new cells? A: just have the newly added cell be the last cell that's visible or just update your layout from the collectionView(_collectionViewAt:) delegate method Q: Serialization order in Java I am currently using ObjectOutputStream to serialize objects. Why I get : [c2@foo.b:33]$ java -cp out.jar test.Main [c2@foo.b:36]$ obj.toString() "Hello" [c2@foo.b:37]$ obj2.toString() "World!" And not : [c2@foo
