Microsoft Office 2016 We can, for a small price, be creative, expressive, and successful. Any time you can make a computer do what you want instead of what it's supposed to do, it's a win. Imagine what you could do if you could make the computer choose the right one. Your shortcuts. Change the name of a file or a picture right in your text editor. Then when you print, the image will be in the file you're editing rather than in a separate document. Your word processor. Page numbers and headers. Link your favorite websites, open them automatically, or go directly to the right spot. Your web browser. Your email program. Your score for spelling and grammar. Because you're always checking. Your music, in your own way. Know when and where your PDFs will end up, whether it's email, a web page, or on paper. There's just one place to share your files — a file cabinet — and you'll be surprised how easily you can find the right place for any file. Your calendar. Your contacts. Your attention span. The time you spend at the computer. Your boss's tolerance for your emails and notices. The files you're editing. Your search history. The sounds in your music, in your own way. Know when and where your PDFs will end up, whether it's email, a web page, or on paper. There's just one place to share your files — a file cabinet — and you'll be surprised how easily you can find the right place for any file.
